LETTER FROM THE CEO

SUMIT KUMAR
CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Our teams worked across states to train youth, empower women, distribute the Bhagavad Gita, promote social harmony, and support families affected by violence, displacement, and hardship. A major focus was Manipur, where HRW strengthened local organizations, trained volunteers, supported Hindu families, and began sustained work in Jiribam.

Arjuna Program trained youth in legal awareness, strategic activism, crisis communication, and refugee support. Durga Program empowered women through Shakti activist training, digital safety, and sextortion awareness. Gita Program reached thousands of families, while the Rishi Valmiki Program strengthened Samajik Ekta through yajna, Sanskar, and Seva.

Our work showed that real change begins when local youth and women are trained, organized, and confident. Hindu activism must move from reaction to responsibility—through knowledge, unity, documentation, and lawful action.

Much has been done, but much more remains to be done. We must reach more families, train more volunteers, and build stronger local networks for the protection and empowerment of Hindu society.

About Hindu Rights Watch

Hindu Rights Watch (HRW) is a community-driven initiative dedicated to protecting Hindu rights, supporting vulnerable Hindu families, and raising awareness about challenges affecting Hindu communities in India.

Vision

To build a vibrant, unified and empowered Hindu society that honors its ancient spiritual heritage while confidently advancing in the modern world, knowledge, courage, and responsible leadership across generations and geographies.

Mission

To revive, protect, and promote Hindu Dharma, culture and social unity by empowering individuals and organizations through leadership training, cultural transmission, rigorous documentation, and community engagement rooted in Vedic wisdom and modern professionalism.

Our Team

The true strength of Hindu Rights Watch lies in its committed team, united by a shared purpose. Ordinary individuals, extraordinary dedication—working together in the service of Dharma.

Training Method, Framework, and Tools

Each Arjuna workshop was designed as a two-day practical training program. The first day focused on understanding the issue, building awareness, and group learning. The second day focused on planning, simulation, field application, and follow-up action.

TOOLS AND STRATEGY USED

- Participatory group exercises to encourage discussion and local problem-solving.
- Case-study method to help participants understand real-life situations.
- Role-plays and simulations for police-station interaction, crisis communication, and trafficking-risk response.
- Area-mapping templates to identify local needs, resources, and service gaps.
- Incident-documentation formats for facts, dates, locations, witnesses, and follow-up actions.
- Advocacy planning sheets to convert concerns into clear, lawful, and evidence-based action.
- Crisis-response checklists for communication, coordination, and family support.
- Two-day action-plan method, ensuring every participant left with a practical next step.

Impact Stories

TRAINING DIGITAL VOICES IN MANIPUR

In Manipur, the Arjuna Program trained two Instagram content creators to support documentation and awareness work for Hindu victims and cultural issues. The training focused on responsible reporting, ethical storytelling, interview skills, and the use of digital platforms for community awareness.

HRW helped the creators design their content themes and interview questions. Their work focused on recording the concerns of affected families, highlighting Hindu culture and community life, and sharing verified information with sensitivity and dignity.

This initiative helped create local digital voices capable of documenting ground realities and communicating them responsibly to a wider audience.

Supporting Five Girls in Hazaribagh

In the Vishnugarh block of Hazaribagh, Jharkhand, the HRW team responded to a distressing situation involving five girls who were reportedly at risk of exploitation by a Christian mission-linked human trafficking network.

The team intervened with sensitivity and urgency, prioritising the safety, privacy, and consent of the girls and their families. HRW members coordinated with the families, assessed the situation, and helped ensure that the girls were moved to safety.

The team also guided the families on documentation, lawful reporting, and available support systems. The case reflects the importance of trained local volunteers who can act quickly, responsibly, and within the framework of law.

Gita Program

Gita Program is a Hindu Rights Watch initiative to take the Shrimad Bhagavad Gita beyond temples and into Hindu homes. The program distributes copies of the Gita directly to Hindu families, particularly in rural, tribal, border, and under-served areas, and encourages household and village-level reading and discussion.

Gita is not only a sacred text but also a practical guide for daily life. Its teachings on duty, courage, self-discipline, service, and righteous action help families build moral clarity, inner strength, and cultural confidence.

"I drive through these lanes every day for work, so people already know me. Handing someone a Gita and seeing them keep it at home — that's a good feeling to carry back."

Ravi Kumar, Local Outreach Worker

Program Highlights

The core method of the Gita Program remained household-level distribution. Team members and local outreach workers personally handed over copies of the Bhagavad Gita to families and encouraged them to read the text regularly.

Impact Story: Women's Voice for Justice in Kolkata

In Kolkata, 13 HRW team members participated in a protest demanding justice for the trainee doctor of RG Kar Medical College and Hospital. The team stood in solidarity with the victim's family and with women across the country demanding safer workplaces, accountability, and strict action against sexual violence.

Before the protest, the HRW team supported the preparation of posters, data-based demand points, and clear messaging for the government. The focus was to present the issue with dignity, factual information, and a strong demand for justice.

RISHI VALMIKI PROGRAM

Rishi Valmiki Program is Hindu Rights Watch's initiative to promote social unity, cultural values, and collective responsibility within Hindu society. The program works to reduce caste, linguistic and encourages communities to come together through shared cultural and spiritual engagement.

SACRED YAJNA

Through these programs, interested non-Hindu individuals and families are welcomed and guided to understand Hindu traditions, values, and practices. Those who voluntarily wish to accept Hinduism are supported through appropriate religious and community processes, with respect for their dignity and choice.

At the same time, the yajna brings together Hindus from all communities, classes, and castes. Participants sit together, perform rituals together, share prasad, and take part in collective prayer. This shared experience helps break social barriers and strengthens the bonds of Samajik Ekta.
